Two Hancock incumbents, DA lose in Demo Runoff

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Two Hancock County incumbents lost their bids for re-election and the Democratic nomination in Tuesday's runoff election.

In addition, incumbent District Attorney Albert Necaise of Gulfport narrowly won in Hancock, but Stone and Harrison County votes in favor of opponent Cono Caranna of Biloxi gave him the party nomination.

Also, unofficial totals show that in Hancock most voters chose the losers in the statewide Democratic runoff for governor, secretary of state and state auditor.

The two unseated Hancock incumbents are Coroner Carl Banderet of Bay St. Louis and District One Supervisor Bert Courge of Lakeshore.

More than 50 Hancock residents crowded in the Board of Supervisors meeting room and about 150 clustered in groups in front of the County Courthouse in Bay St. Louis as precinct returns were announced on the hot dry Tuesday election night.

Banderet was defeated in a countywide vote by Harold J. Stiglet of Bay St. Louis, an insurance agent and former longtime funeral director.

The two-term incumbent coroner received 3,643 votes to Stiglet's 4,020 in the unofficial count.

Cheers rose from several groups after the Standard Precinct returns were announced, the last votes counted in the coroner's race which bolstered Stiglet's lead.

Robert B. Peterson Jr. of Clermont Harbor narrowly defeated Courge, a two-term supervisor, with 16 votes based on the unofficial count.

Peterson's supporters at the Courthouse also cheered as the last District One precinct totals from Ansley were announced.

The Ansley Precinct gave Peterson 79 votes to Courge's 40 which resulted in a total unofficial District One count of 919-935.

In the DA race, Necaise in his native county of Hancock earned 4,102 votes to Caranna's 3,927.

But Caranna in Harrison earned 16,926 votes and 2,414 in Stone.

Necaise gained 13,398 votes in Harrison and 2,215 in Stone which resulted in him losing by 3,552 votes in the three-county total.

KELLAR WINS

A.A. (Dolph) Kellar, District Two supervisor and board president, defeated Ronald E. Cuevas in the runoff with a 1054-731 margin.

Kellar won the democratic nomination to seek a fifth term by winning in all District Two precincts except Pearl-ington where Cuevas resides.

JUDGE RACE

District Four Justice Court Judge Bruce Necaise won the Democratic nomination for newly-formed Hancock Justice Court East District in the runoff against Joseph (Joe) Dobson, a former District Four judge.

The unofficial vote count in that race is 2,060 to 1,887.

CONSTABLE RACES

In the runoff for District One constable, incumbent Gary L. Lader won the nomination by defeating Tommy J. Lader with a 971-869 margin.

Gary L. Bennett defeated Hugh Odom Jr. in the District Two constable runoff with 987 votes to 738.

Alton (Clay) Sick earned 756 votes to Kire C. Mitchell Jr.'s 851 to win the Democratic nomination for District Five constable.

STATE SENATE

Bay St. Louis City Councilman Gene Taylor defeated former Hancock State Rep. Earl (Buck) Lader of Kiln in the runoff for District 46 state senator.

The district includes most of Hancock, about one-third of rural Harrison and a western portion of Jackson County.

Donations asked for Galveston storm victims

Brother Charles Clark, pastor of First Assembly of God in Waveland, returned from Galveston, Tex. Tuesday after delivering a truck-load of clothing for victims of Hurricane Alicia.

Clark said a critical need for additional clothing and canned or dry food items continues in the storm-ravaged areas of southeast Texas.

"We will be returning to the Galveston area with another load Friday morning," Clark said.

The local clergyman said he will be accepting donations of food and clothing to take on the second trip through Thursday evening.

Clark reports the items will be distributed to storm victims through the American Red Cross in Galveston.

"We can carry a 2.5-ton load," Clark said in emphasizing the need for donations to fill the truck.

For information call the pastor at 467-7667.

Agency head reports:

BMR tests to determine oyster seed shell shares

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

A State Bureau of Marine Resources official reports that scientific sampling results of Mississippi's four primary oyster dredging reefs will determine how clam shells for re-seeding of these areas will be distributed.

An unusual fresh water influx into the Mississippi Sound resulting from spring flooding destroyed the oyster crop in this area.

Dr. Richard Leard, BMR director, Tuesday noted the oyster beds will need two years to recover from the fresh water kill.

Ronald Ferrell of Waveland, Gulf Coast Fishermen's Association president, reported Tuesday that some Hancock fishermen feel the BMR will not place an equitable share of clam shells on St. Joe Reef—the county's only dredging reef located on the Mississippi-Louisiana border.

Ferrell said he recently spoke with Leard after an association member said the BMR planned not to place any of the shell on St. Joe.

The association president reported he was assured by Leard that shell would be placed on St. Joe, but the BMR director did not know how much material would be distributed there.

Leard confirmed that report Tuesday and explained in about two weeks 10,000 cubic feet of shell would be placed on the state's four best dredging reefs in an annual Coastal Zone Management Program-funded oyster bed re-seeding project.

project.

The oyster reefs involved in the re-seeding project include Square Handkerchief, Pass Marianne, Telegraph and St. Joe, the BMR director said.

In addition, the U.S. Congress is deciding the fate of a $500,000 National Marine Fisheries funded project which would provide between 40,000 and 50,000 cubic yards of shell for those reefs, Leard reported.

But the BMR director revealed the federal funds would not be available until October at the earliest when the federal 1984 fiscal year begins—one month late of an opportune seeding time.

Official says Hancock runoff ran smoothly

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Hancock County's Democratic runoff election Tuesday ran smoothly compared to the primary conducted three weeks ago, an election official said this week.

Charles Gottschalk, County Election Commission secretary and election coordinator, reported Wednesday that the Hancock Circuit Clerk's office Tuesday received about one-tenth of the telephone inquiries regarding where to vote compared to the number received during the First Primary.

He attributed the decrease in calls to voter familiarity with several new polling locations and precinct boundaries.

Some 8,000 of Hancock's approximate 18,000 registered voters participated in the Tuesday election based on unofficial election returns.

Gottschalk reported extra ballots were brought to the Arlington, Fla. Top and Ansley Precincts due to a relatively heavy voter turnout at those polling locations.

But all other 23 polling spots experienced voter turnouts slightly less than in the primary, the coordinator said.

He also noted that extra affidavits for voters registered in the wrong precincts as a result of redistricting were filed in all precincts, but extra forms were delivered to the Waveland and Kiln West Precincts because of a larger number of registration errors in those areas.

He also noted that the vote counting process was conducted more smoothly and quickly than in previous years when handwritten ballots were utilized.

The polls closed at 6 p.m., the votes from all precincts were counted by 8:03 p.m. and countywide and district unofficial totals were computed by 8:20 p.m.

YOUR HEALTH

Someone remarked the other day that he didn't know Chiropractic care could do anything for headaches. Similar remarks may be heard from time to time concerning other conditions of the body. Even patients, upon recovery from one ailment through Chiropractic, are sometimes unaware that adjustment also can correct the cause of Nervous Interference which creates other diseases and conditions. The point is that Chiropractic is a natural, non-invasive method of correcting imbalances in the body, and it is a health service. Doctors of Chiropractic realize there are conditions necessitating surgery and will not hesitate to recommend these services when they deem it necessary.

He explained oyster beds must be seeded with shell in early spring or in September to aid in the development of spat sets (oyster spawn).

Silt from winter flooding or the lack of oyster reproduction cycles would render the seed shell ineffective if it was placed during any other time, the BMR head reported.

Leard said the BMR is analyzing samples from the four reefs to determine their condition and what amounts of clamshell are needed for each reef.

The BMR director explained that oyster reefs with an abundance of relatively loose and clean shell are ideal for spat development.

"Oyster seeding is not an exact science, but we try to seed areas which yield the most oysters. What percentage of the shell we'll put on each reef, I can't tell yet," he stated.

"There's no county line involved to do this thing (oyster seeding)," the BMR director said.

He noted the reefs offshore from Harrison County are just about the same distance from Bayou Cadet (where the Hancock fishing fleet is based) as St. Joe.

But Leard said based on previous surveys there are virtually no live oysters left on any Mississippi reefs.

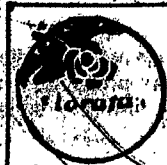

When asked if St. Joe was devastated more than the other reefs since it is the closest local oyster area to the Pearl and Mississippi Rivers, Leard replied, "No."

He explained although St. Joe is more susceptible to flooding, it receives a little more fresh water than the other reefs which makes it less apt to be infested with oyster drills—a type conch which preys on oysters.

Ferrell reported Hancock fishermen are "very pleased" with Gov. William Winter's appointment of Bay St. Louis attorney Joseph Gex to the State Wildlife Conservation Commission, the governing body which oversees the BMR.

"I think it will help fishermen here by having someone locally who we can talk to," Ferrell stated.

Some of the world's most delicious desserts, strange as it may seem, are also among the easiest to make, at least when there's a resourceful cook stirring things up in the kitchen.

Biscuit Tortoni—or Bisque Tortoni, as some call it—is one of Italy's many sweet tasting gifts to the world, a delicate melange of cream and sugar and macaroons and sherry and such, a heavenly taste.

Curious as usual, I delved into the origins of the name...and learned that the "Tortoni" came from, in all probability, the name of a 19th century Italian "restaurateur" in Paris...and my dictionary defines "bisque" first as "the thick cream soup" of which we usually think when one says "bisque" and also as "an ice cream made of heavy cream, with powdered nuts or macaroons."

And since "biscuit" is also spelled "bisquit," you can see how it all come about. But we really didn't need to know all that to enjoy:

Adrienne 'A' Vinson's
Biscuit Tortoni
Whites of 3 eggs
½ pint whipping cream, whipped
½ cup confectioners sugar
1 or 2 Tbspn sherry
1 dozen almond macaroons, crumbled Whip the eggs. Then whip the cream, and when it's almost to the peak, add the sugar very, very gradually. Fold in the egg whites, very gently, add the sherry and macaroons, reserving a few crumbs to sprinkle atop.

Fill small fluted paper cups with mixture, or small dishes, and sprinkle crumbs over. Cover with waxed paper and put in the freezer until quite firm. Top each with a cherry if desired. (Eight servings).

One of my spur-of-the-moment, or rather spur-of-desperation desserts came about this way. I arrived home with a half gallon of super French custard ice cream (usually a beyond the budget item) and jumped out of the car to arbitrate, to pit it gently, a hotly contested baseball game between a group of young boys, including two of my own.

When I remembered the precious—and it was precious—ice cream, I found a soupy mess. Remembering the burnt almond ice cream we all liked, I crumbled some cookies into the soupy ice cream, toasted the almonds left over from last night's chicken dish, and there was born a delicious dessert.

When I make brownies—my gooey, gooey ones—for my six grandsons, I invariably, of course, have crumbs left over, so I mix these with vanilla or chocolate ice cream, or with whipped cream, or even with whipped topping, for a quick dessert.

The edging of the median on US-90 in Bay St. Louis sure makes an impression on our community.

The same goes for the residents who use an edger around their property.

The folks responsible for having the grass cut and edging done should all be commended.

Most folks report they are glad the elections are now over with until the November General Elections.

We want to thank every person who took the time to vote on Tuesday for the candidates of their choice.

It has been a long campaign for many candidates and we want to thank the majority of them for the fine way they conducted themselves during the campaign.

In all probability, it won't be long before some of the nominees will have to hit the campaign trail again for the General Election in November.

We have heard many parents as well as students complaining about the starting of school so early.

The temperatures have been very high and the teachers and students have been very uncomfortable in classes.

We are hoping schedules will possibly be reset so school will not start until September in the coming years.

The month of August is always hot in our area, and it just does not seem right for students to have to attend school until after Labor Day.

Many of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce members are getting ready for the big end of summer picnic barbecue social at Buccaneer State Park.

Pat Murphy's County Line Band is scheduled for the special entertainment.

All Girl Scouts and other girls interested in scouting are invited to attend a skating party at Twin Pines Skating Rink, Waveland, on Wednesday, August 31 from 3 to 5 p.m.

GET PSYCHED TO LOSE WEIGHT!
Q. I would like to lose 10 to 15 pounds. But I can't seem to stay on a diet. Any suggestions?

A. You can lose weight initially on almost any diet. The goal, of course, is to keep the weight off. For a cosmetic weight loss of a few pounds, the best "diet" is regular exercise. But for a moderately overweight person, modifications of eating habits in addition to exercise are necessary to lose weight and to avoid the health problems that often accompany obesity.

Obesity, which is defined as being more than 20 percent over one's ideal body weight, can endanger our health by making us more susceptible to such risk factors for heart disease as high blood pressure, diabetes, and elevated cholesterol levels in the blood.

Weight-loss aids and crash diets are potentially dangerous and should be avoided. It is more important gradually to change your lifestyle and attitude toward nutrition.

Before you begin a diet, find out why your previous attempts at dieting were unsuccessful. You may have eaten less, for instance, but returned to your old eating habits once you lost the desired weight.

The following are diet and behavior suggestions to adopt if you are an overweight person who is serious about embarking on a weight-loss program and then keeping those extra pounds off.

People who are overweight may skip meals, eat snack foods, eat at irregular hours and in unusual places, or eat while they're engaged in other activities. The first step in a successful behavior-change plan is to separate eating from other aspects of your life.

For instance, when you eat at home, eat in the kitchen or dining room, not in front of the television set or in bed. Confine your eating at work to the cafeteria or a restaurant, not at your desk while talking on the telephone or reading reports.

When you are away from the office or home, eat only in places where food traditionally is served. This means no snacks while driving or walking.

Learn to eat the right foods in the correct amounts, the most difficult aspect of a successful diet plan. Eliminate junk foods from your diet. Keep them out of the house. Don't keep junk snacks in your desk drawer.

If such food must be kept at home for others, keep it out of sight—in sealed opaque containers or on a back shelf in the refrigerator or cupboard.

Put away extra food before a meal begins. Use smaller plates so the portions look bigger. Eat slowly. Do your food shopping from a prepared list, and don't shop when you're hungry.

Positive feed back is important to a person on a diet. Encourage an overweight friend or family member to join you and compare notes on your progress.

Keep a chart of the foods you eat and the weight you lose to see a correlation between the two. Intermittent non-food rewards encourage you to stick to the diet. And regular exercise should be incorporated into any weight loss program.

Don't be discouraged if you're not losing weight as rapidly as you planned. A gradual weight loss is far healthier than a rapid one.

Small-business Angle

DEFENSE COSTS

Most small-business owners back the Reagan Administration's pursuit of a strong national defense, but entrepreneurs also insist on frugal purchase of military items. Some recent information from Ohio underscored the need for a more vigilant effort by the Pentagon and Congress regarding costs for repair parts vital to our ballistic missiles and jet aircraft.

Rep. John R. Kasich (R-Ohio), a member of the House Armed Services Committee, took a look at purchases of repair items by the Aerospace Guidance and Metrology Center at Newark Air Force Base in Newark, Ohio. Small-business owners in Columbus and Cleveland called to his attention gross overpricing of items that emphasized the need for more competition in spare parts purchases.

The small-business owners said they could charge far less to the military than what is now being charged by contractors who are apparently "locked in." How much less has become the central question in a purchase fiasco uncovered by Rep. Kasich.

Col. Paul Lange, Commander of the Air Force Center at Newark gave Kasich a study of 125 replacement parts used to repair missiles and aircraft. The information paints a sorry picture of material costs.

Here are three examples: A simple machine screw used in the guidance system for the Minuteman II missile cost $1.08 in Fiscal Year 1982. This year the same screw costs $36.77—an increase of 3,400 percent. A similar situation was discovered for a circuit card assembly, also used in the Minuteman guidance system.

Last year it cost $234.05 per unit, but this year the price is up 475 percent to $1,111.75. The story for vital parts for the FB-111 jet was just as bad. A connector/electric plug used in the electronic housing of the FB-111 cost $7.99 in 1982, while the same plug now costs an astounding $726.86! The increases go on and on throughout the list of 125 items.

This data should not be used as an argument for slashing defense expenditures because we do need to expand defense preparedness in critical areas, however, the data should ring an alarm bell on outrageous cost increases.

The Air Force has yet to offer an explanation. (Col. Lange told the congressman he could not explain such cost increases but indicated the truth should be found out). Rep. Kasich told the Armed Services Committee, "We must know whether these instances are isolated or occur elsewhere in the military. If we find money is being wasted, we must find out why, and how it can be stopped."

Congress must take an urgent look at this spare parts fiasco. Small business competition could do much to reduce costs.

The People's Business

A MESSAGE FOR PARENTS

The beginning of another school year reminds us that decisions are being made in households across the state about attendance. It is unfortunate that decisions like this are being made...there should be no question about it. School opens—school-aged children go to school.

But that's not always the case in Mississippi. Several thousand six-year-olds fail to enroll in first grade classes each year, and only about half those reaching the fifth grade made it through the 12th grade.

This, then, is a message for all parents of school-aged children in Mississippi. You are denying your child the opportunity for economic advancement if you deny him or her the opportunity of an education.

The Mississippi Economic Council has a policy statement which says education for all citizens is indispensable. The Council also says "The ultimate educational goal is a citizen who is an asset to his family, community, state, and nation..."

The only way Mississippi can reach that goal is to have children enrolled in school and in regular attendance—grades 1 through 12.

While this is a message for parents, communities can begin now to encourage families to recognize and take advantage of opportunities for education.

WHY NOT LEADERSHIP?

Mississippi is in the middle of its long, hot summer of state and local level politics. And, already, attention is being focused on the national elections of 1984.

From the courthouse to the statehouse to the national capitol we are electing officeholders.

But, are we electing leaders?

Nationally, there is a crisis in education. There is a crisis in Central America. There is crisis in the federal deficit.

At home, there is crisis in education. There is crisis in state and local finances. There is, also, a crisis in confidence.

Seems that we have two choices.

We can go through the motions of elections—local, state, and federal—follow the same old ineffective platforms and promises and procedures. Or, we can demand new visions and new leadership, expect new ideas and new directions.

We can, in short, learn from the shortcomings of recent years and recent experiences, and correct the errors of the past because of those lessons learned.

Ladner asked his supporters to back Taylor in the General Election and pledged his support of the Democratic party nominee.

In the District 46 senatorial race, incumbent Martin Smith of Poplarville defeated Larry L. Albritten of Picayune by a 9,301-6,804 margin.

The district includes the Leetown and Crane Creek Precincts in Hancock, all of Pearl River and Stone Counties and a portion of north Harrison.

"Corporate heads throughout the country are impressed with the improvements in Mississippi. Our reputation is having a favorable effect on industry to locate in our state," said Winter.

Winter ended his speech by saying, "On this hot August morning, I have a commitment to thank you in Pass Christian for the kind of leadership that you have demonstrated."

Following the governor's speech, Watson presented Winter with a plaque, stating, "We want you to remember us so we purchased a plaque."

Lizana closed the session stating, "We will always remember William Winter and what he has done for this state."

School board reviews fund raising policy

By JUNE M. HEYDT

The fund raising policies of Hancock County Schools were the topic for discussion at a special meeting of the Hancock County School Board Monday night.

The discussion followed a request from the Hancock North Central Band for permission to sponsor a Back-To-School dance in the gym Friday, Sept. 2, to kick off the first game of the football season.

The request was approved by the board pending the acceptance of a recommendation by Donald Hillman, HNC principal. The event will also have to conform to the fund raising policy initiated Feb. 2, 1983.

Policy guidelines are as follows: There should not be fund raising activities unless there is a definite reason.

There are two types of fund raisings; major, which consists of total school involvement such as product sales of candy and cookies. Major also consists of student participation activities such as the Halloween Carnival and the Spring Festival.

Minor fund raising activities involve individual groups such as band, beta, and annual.

Each elementary school will be allowed one major fund raising per semester.

Hancock North Central High School will be permitted three minor fund raising activities per semester. The principal will assign groups a specific time to sell and should also combine small organizations when possible.

All fund raising must receive prior approval from the principal and superintendent.

The board sanctions only the United Fund for students to contribute on a voluntary basis. Terrell Randolph, superintendent, said, "United Fund is accepted all over the county."

Popularity contests or other competitive events will not be conducted in the schools if the determination of the winner is based upon the amount of money which has been brought in by the person chosen. Randolph said, "We made this policy because these kind of events caused a lot of hard feelings among parents and children."

The final policy the board approved in February is that raffles or games of chance will not be permitted on school premises or at school-sponsored activities. The only exception would be an entrance or door prize by parent clubs as an auxiliary to admission to the school's money raising activity of the year.

In other business, a low bid of $647 was accepted from Mississippi Music, Biloxi, for the purchase of a drum set for the HNC band.

Also in other business, a number of people were approved for employment in the school system by the board.

Sherry Perkins will be hired as a part-time janitor at HNC effective Aug. 17.

Clarence Green was approved as handyman at Gulfview Elementary for the 1983-84 school year.

Iris Hughes was employed as Chapter 1 aide at Gulfview for the 1983-84 school year replacing Rita Davis whose resignation was accepted by the board at Monday's meeting.

Millie Breun will be hired as bus driver for Hancock County School District for a period of two weeks.

Cindy Ladner was approved for the position of teacher assistant at Gulfview Elementary for 1983-84 school year.

Denise Ladner will be employed as part-time secretary at Gulfview for the 1983-84 school year.

Approval was granted to employ Willie Mae Necaise for eight hours per day at Hancock North Central Elementary until the return of Ted Wayne Necaise.

Truman Brendal was hired as secretary for the adult education program for 1983-84.

The board approved the transfer of Myrna Bourgeois from Gulfview to Hancock North Central Elementary to serve as gifted education teacher. Approval to supplement Bourgeois $3,000 from the P.L. 94-142 funds for Psychometrist for 1983-84 was accepted.

Adult education teachers approved were, Edward Farve, will teach at Hancock North Central; Joseph Gregory, Gulfview; Nancy Sanders and Clementine Williams, will teach at Charles B. Murphy.

Further in other business, the board members and superintendent will attend a seminar on school law sponsored by the Mississippi School Board Association on Sept. 20 and 21 in Jackson.

NEW CRIMINAL JUSTICE FACILITY—Fred Wagner, Bay St. Louis architect, shows a planning study draft of one of two proposals for a new jail at a recent Hancock County Jail Committee meeting. Plans were prepared by Wagner and Nathaniel Curtis, architect of New Orleans. On Monday the jail committee recommended Wagner present the feasibility study to the Hancock County Board of Supervisors at their meeting on Monday. One plan is for construction on back of the Hancock County Courthouse and the other on property bordered by the railroad, Youth Court and The Sea Coast Echo, across from the present jail. The estimated costs for the facility was set at $2.5 million for either site by the authorities. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

Jail study to be presented Mon.

By ELLIS CUEVAS

The feasibility study for a new Criminal Justice Facility prepared by N.C. Curtis and Fred Wagner, architects, is scheduled to be presented to the Board of Supervisors on Monday.

The architects held a total of seven meetings with a Citizens Advisory Committee representing interests of the county and the cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland.

The committee asked Wagner to request the Board of Supervisors to place a bond issue on the ballot in the November General Election for a New Criminal Justice Facility.

Two plans were prepared by the architects, one for a facility to be constructed behind the Hancock County Courthouse, and the other on property bordering the railroad, The Youth Court and The Sea Coast Echo.

The advisory committee recommended the plan behind the courthouse. At one of the meetings a discussion was held about the possibility of permission being needed from the Historical Registry, if an addition was made to the current courthouse.

On Monday Wagner said, "I have checked and since the jail is not part of the courthouse which is on the National Registry, there will be no problem with the Historical Society."

The study shows a need for a facility of 29 cells to house a total of 53 inmates in a two story building.

Wagner's report states, "Approximately 18,000 square feet of enclosed building space can be built for an estimated cost of $2,492,000."

"The building has been designed to meet minimum jail standards and provide secured detention of adult male and female inmates and juveniles," Wagner said.

A lengthy discussion was held on Monday night about the possibility of housing the dispatchers for the county, fire departments, and police departments of Bay St. Louis and Waveland in the facility.

Donald Dorn, Waveland chief of police, commented, "I cannot talk for the Council, but, I know a lot of thought would have to go into the matter. There are many small details which would have to be ironed out."

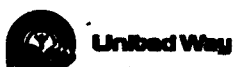

The report states a central dispatch center located in the new jail could combine the efforts of Bay St. Louis and Waveland and save on overall personnel costs required of the expanded facility.

The current jail, constructed in the mid-30s was constructed to house 15 inmates with the current population running in the low 30s, and sometimes in the 40s.

The study looked at depth into the population of the current jail and project needs in the years ahead.

Several members of the advisory committee are planning on attending the Supervisors meeting when Wagner makes his presentation.

Waveland Players to unveil secret set Friday evening

The Waveland Players "Variety '83 - Cavalcade of American Entertainment" opens tomorrow night at 8 p.m. at the Waveland Civic Center on Coleman Avenue, and continues Saturday at 8 p.m. and Sunday at 3 p.m.

The show repeats again the following weekend on Friday and Saturday, September 2 and 3 at 8 p.m.

Tickets are $3 at the door.

Producer-director Ed Scanlan Jr., the Waveland Players' art director in residence, has designed a unique set that he insists be kept secret until opening night.

At a few recent rehearsals, it was a delight to see the show grow in form and substance.

Barbara Jo and Dick Fitch (married 40-plus years), sing and walk to "I Remember It Well." They emit charm, grace, and poise as you wonder just what memories the two have stored up through the years.

Hansel Baxter's personality sparkles every time she appears; she's in a number of songs, skits, and dances.

Margo Frommeyer's original monologue brings chuckles throughout; with a few out-and-out hoots to boot! Lana Noonan and Bunk Gardner, whose voices blend in delicious harmony, have out-done themselves in "Variety '83." One cannot help but be moved by their performance.

The Gospel portion of the show features Lori Garside, Dottie Overall, Janet Alme, Barbara Jo Fitch, Mary Delorenzo, Noonan, and Baxter.

Scanlan and Garside run through a selection of country and folk tunes, finishing with a lively "Country Roads" in harmony.

No variety show is complete without its dancers. Michelle Dietrich, Chiara Ishem, Piccola Dietrich, Monica Parker, Jan Frommeyer, Niccola Dietrich, Hansel Baxter, Angelique Bell, Buffy Jaquillard, and Jamie Dieck kick, strut, shimmy, and rock and roll in high style.

A "War of the Worlds" skit written by assistant director Jeanne-Marie Bell cleverly utilizes the off-stage voices of Ted Stechmann and Dick Fitch. Joining Bell onstage are Margo Frommeyer, Barbara Jo Fitch, and Overall.

Tommy Worrel as villain and Derek Stechmann as handsome hero appear in a melodramatic skit with Noonan and Garside; while Martin Bopda plays a bashful L'il Abner to Baxter's Daisy Mae.

Booda, Baxter, Gardner, and Ted Stechmann clown in a courtroom skit.

The show closes with a well-stage finale, inviting audience participation in "Music, Music, Music," "Camptown

Minas, spotlight; Buddy Williams, stage manager; Derek Stechmann and Tommy Worrel, assistant stage managers; Daren Stechmann, stage hand; Scanlan, stage set; Meta Garside and Edith Bierhorst Back, publicity; Scanlan and Meta Garside, programs; Scanlan, posters; Lori Garside, Overall, and Jan Frommeyer, makeup; Bubba Dietrich, concessions; and Betty Stechmann, tickets.

CADET HUNT

Kenneth P. Hunt, son of Eldon Hunt of Rt. 3, Pass Christian, has completed a U.S. Air Force ROTC field training encampment at Tyndall Air Force Base, Fla.

Field training, attended by cadets normally between their second and third year of college, gives an opportunity to evaluate each student's potential as an officer, according to an Air Force Spokesman.

The summer's curriculum consists of orientations on jet aircraft, career opportunities, human relations education and equal opportunity training. Physical fitness and survival training is also emphasized.

The field training is four weeks, but cadets in the two-year ROTC program receive an additional two weeks of instruction in the development of air power and the contemporary Air Force.

Hunt is a student at the University of Mississippi at Oxford.

He is a 1979 graduate of Pass Christian High School.

AIRMAN PORTER

Airman Gregory R. Porter, son of Linda and Aaron Burton of 308 W. Railroad, Pass Christian, has graduated from the U.S. Air Force course for personal affairs specialist at Keesler Air Force Base.

Graduates of the course learned procedures to assist active duty and retired airmen with their service benefits, social security, insurance, estate planning and retirement.

They also earned credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

Porter is scheduled to serve with the 100th Air Base Wing at Kirtland Air Force Base, N.M.

His wife, Christine, is the daughter of Perry Aumeyer of Pass Christian. He is a 1980 graduate of Pass Christian High School.

Drug-free headache therapy studied by Ole Miss psycs

Can warm hands mean headache relief? A University of Mississippi psychologist, will be teaching patients to warm their hands as one biofeedback method to treat migraine headaches in a special clinic this fall.

At the Ole Miss clinic, headache sufferers will learn biofeedback techniques, relaxation methods and stress management to give themselves relief.

Dr. Robert Moss, assistant professor of psychology at Ole Miss, who worked at a similar clinic at the University of Georgia, will run the clinic.

In hand temperature biofeedback used to treat migraines, a heat sensing device that activates a tone is placed on the patient's hand. As the patient learns to raise the temperature of his hands, he stops the tone from sounding, and his headaches will probably get better, or stop completely, Dr. Moss explained.

Migraine headaches are also treated by biofeedback that monitors the volume of blood pulsing through the temporal artery, Moss stated. A light sensing device hooked to a polygraph machine is attached to the patient's temple.

When the artery in the temple is dilated, increased blood flow reflects more light and tone sounds. The patient gradually learns to stop the tone, meaning he is constricting the artery and controlling his pain.

Dr. Moss said that electromyographic (EMG) feedback measures muscular tension levels, the cause of tension headaches. With electrodes attached to his head, the patient tries to relax specific muscles. Pitch change of the tone mechanism connected to the electrodes is controlled by changes in muscle tension. As the patient learns to relax tensed muscles, the tone gets lower in pitch, and the headaches get better.

Dr. Moss said the clinic will be open to anyone who has had a thorough physical examination to rule out such possible causes of headaches as brain tumors or vision problems.

Fees will be charged on a sliding scale from $5 to $40 per session. Students, faculty and staff of the University will be charged a $5 fee, regardless of income.

During the first two sessions, the patient will be asked to supply a complete medical history, a description of the pain he suffers and any circumstances relating to the headaches' occurrence, Dr. Moss said.

Once it has been determined whether the headaches stem from muscular tension or dilation of arteries, the means of treatment is indicated. One of more sessions of relaxation training (followed by daily home practice) and one of the biofeedback methods is usually prescribed.

"No one seems to know exactly how biofeedback works," Dr. Moss said. "There are a number of theories explaining it, but we don't know the scientific basis. It just works - in many cases."

Dr. Moss said a patient can't force himself to learn biofeedback techniques. Success in learning them seems to depend mainly on how badly the patient wants to learn. For people suffering from chronic headache pain, motivation can be strong.

Dr. Moss said one patient had been on medical leave from his job for 14 months because of headache pain that made him completely helpless. After six months of blood volume biofeedback, the man was able to return to work, basically free from headaches.

"Quite a few people with headaches severe enough to require two or three shots of Demerol daily have become pain-free with relaxation and biofeedback training," Dr. Moss said.

Senner likely starter in Wildcat backfield

Pearl River College's Wildcats wound up two-day practices Saturday with a picture-session and a two-hour full scale scrimmage.

Assistant Herbert Morris and Leon Akins ran the team through two hours of contact. "We had an excellent workout," said Morris. "Things are really taking shape for the 'Cats."

After the Saturday noon session the players headed home for the first time since reporting, Aug. 11. They were all back in camp by Sunday afternoon.

This week's practice was interrupted Monday morning with registration. Regular fall classes begin Thursday.

The annual "Meet the Wildcats Night" will be Thursday at 7 p.m. in the Doble Holden Stadium. The Wildcats and coaches will be introduced and the first scrimmage under the lights will follow. The event is open to the public.

"We have a lot of polishing left to do," Arban said. "We still need to learn our assignments better and get our timing down, but, overall, I'm pleased with the hustle and attitude of the players."

A look at the Wildcats' depth chart shows the 'Cats are at least three deep in every position. Sophomores naturally fill the first team slots, however, there are freshmen ready to move up.

"We'll have several freshmen seeing action," said Arban. "They may not start, but several will definitely see action when we take the field against East Mississippi here at home Saturday, Sept. 3."

If the Wildcats were scheduled to play tomorrow the probably offensive lineup would include Doug Norris of Oak Grove at quarterback and Richard Hathorn, 197, Bassfield, and Bryan Maxie, 190, North Forrest, at tailbacks.

and Greg Harris, 237, of Lafayette.

The linebackers are Tommy Hillman, 230, of Petal and Johnny Runnels, 205, of Picayune or Doug Brewton, 212, of Columbia.

The noseguard at this time is Clay Squires, 239, of Summa, Ala. or Darrell Perkins, 218, of Sumrall.

USM season tickets mailed

University of Southern Mississippi football fans who purchased season tickets for the 1983 campaign should be receiving their tickets in the mail during the next few days.

According to USM business manager James Trussell, 300 more season tickets have been sold for the 1983 season than had been sold at the same time last season.

Season tickets are still available through the USM ticket office as are tickets to all of USM's road games. The ticket office will be open daily, Monday through Friday.

Out-of-town ticket purchasers may use a toll free telephone number to purchase tickets (In-state calls only). The toll free number is 1-800-222-1605.

The ticket office will also be open on home game days from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The stadium ticket office will open at 5 p.m. on the days of home games.

Hawks introducing season grid ticket

Hancock North Central High School's Athletic Department this year is introducing a season ticket to the school's home football games.

The season ticket, good for five games in Hawk Stadium, will afford a $3 savings to purchasers, according to Irwin Favre, HNC head coach.

Price of the adult season ticket is $12. Adult tickets for individual games are $3.

The Hawks' 1983 home games include St. Stanislaus, Sept. 2; Pearl River Central, Sept. 9; Homecoming against East Central, Sept. 30; Vancleave, Oct. 14; and Bay St. Louis, Oct. 28.

Season tickets are available at the high school office and will be sold at the stadium ticket office on the night of the SSC game Sept. 2.

For information call the office, 265-7191.

Youth soccer slates registration

Bay Area Youth Soccer (BAYS) reports centralized registration for the 1983-1984 soccer season will open Saturday.

The registration schedule includes: Saturday, Aug. 27, 9 a.m.-1 p.m., Kiln Baseball Field, Hwy. 43.

Monday, Aug. 29, 7:30-9:30 p.m., Cafeteria, St. Clare School.

Tuesday, Aug. 30, 7:30-9:30 p.m., Virginia Hall, Christ Episcopal.

Your child may register at any of the above locations. Teams will be grouped around schools and neighborhoods as last year.

The registration fee is $15 per player and includes a uniform (shirt, shorts and socks) and supplemental medical insurance for players.

Each child in the recreational soccer program will play at least one-half of each scheduled game.

The Fall season schedule will begin Oct. 15 and end on Nov. 19 with no make-up games.

The Spring season will begin Feb. 19 and end on March 31 except for make-up games and the Playdowns.

"This is a good sport for all ages of boys and girls. We look forward to seeing all players from last season and many new players, especially girls, registering for this season," said Tom Demboski, league president.

Starting at the fullback position is either St. Stanislaus graduate Scott Senner, 210, of Gretna, La. or Johnny Mathews, 195, of West Marion. At split end is L.C. Hopkins of Blair and/or Roy Travis of Purvis.

The offensive line is anchored by center Kyle Dossett, 218, of Picayune and guards Kevin Russell, 230, of East Marion and Dennis Coriel, 224, of Lafayette, La.

The tackle positions at this time are filled by James Adams, 224, of Gonzales, La.

Jerome Dean of Ruston, La. and Shannon Ramsey of Picayune is holding down the right defensive end spot until Richard Hughes becomes eligible after the first ballgame.

Hughes and Waits were injured last year and the Mississippi Junior College Commission ruled they must sit out the first games before becoming eligible to play here in '83.

As Arban put it, "This is the starting lineups today, it is quite possible things could change before we meet East Mississippi."

STRONGEST EAGLE

Senior tight end Mike Landrum of Columbia is the strongest member of Southern Mississippi's football team, according to a recent strength test administered by the Golden Eagle coaching staff. The former quarterback bench pressed 375 pounds during the test.

Finishing a close second were senior nose guard Jerald

Baylis of Jackson and red-shirt freshman defensive tackle Fred Molden of Moss Point, who each lifted 355 pounds.

USM's freshmen players were also tested and the top two finishers were tailback Clarence Edwards and defensive end Freddy Wilson, both of Panama City, Fla. Both players were standout players at Mosley High School.

New football coach at Ole Miss sees promise in virgin backfield

There is something strange in the Ole Miss offensive backfield this fall. No starting fullbacks or tailbacks are returning from last season or even the year before.

Gone are the days of Hammerhead Thomas and trying to decide which side of the football fullback-linebacker Kinny Hooper will line up on. Yet, the 1983 running game at Ole Miss is not, by any means, on the out-and-out.

Fifth-year performer Buford McGee heads a bevy of promising running backs that must switch from the multiple "T" to the pro-set offense this fall under first year head coach Billy Brewer.

But it is not just the switch of offensive schemes that has McGee talking of good things from the running backs this gridiron season.

"This spring we did a lot more hitting and hard practices every day," McGee said. "If you couldn't take it, you hit the road. We've been called quitters in the past, but you'll see none of that this year. Our attitude is now positive and I think we accomplished some things last spring to put us back on the right track to winning some games this season."

McGee, who jolted onto the Ole Miss football scene with a 167-yard performance against Memphis State in his initial game as a Reb in the 1979 season-opener, will have the nod at tailback going into fall practice, a position which he labored last season behind Andre Thomas. The Durant native led Ole Miss in pass receiving a year ago with 42 catches for 365 yards.

"I believe Buford developed more toughness this spring," running back coach Bill Canty said. "I think it basically goes back to an attitude and he has made a lot of improvement in that area."

Injuries, though, have constantly plagued the senior major. A shoulder injury in 1979, an ankle ailment later, and turf toe have been the stumbling blocks. But the multi-talented tailback keeps fighting back.

"There was a time in the middle of last spring that some ankle problems slowed Buford down for two or three days," Canty said. "But he fought back and came back with a tempo that I think you've got to have in this league."

Behind McGee at tailback is a promising young speedster, sophomore Nathan Wonsley (5-9, 183). Wonsley gained 22 yards on seven attempts against Tulane last season in his only significant action. But during the annual Red-Blue spring game, a couple of months back, the former Moss Point High youngster led all rushers with 60 yards on 12 carries and a touchdown.

"Nathan won the award for the most consistent player in the spring," Canty says. "He showed a lot of toughness and quickness in the spring and I was pleased with the way he came along."

Two other veterans return behind McGee and Wonsley at tailback as 1982 redshirt Adolph Duckworth is back along with another speedster, Andree Rodgers.

Duckworth, a 6-1, 200-pounder from Taylorsville, has seen limited action at Ole Miss but rushed for 51 yards on 13 totes in the Red-Blue contest. Rodgers, on the other hand, has been limited to junior varsity action in his one season in Oxford and rushed for 54 yards last season in four contests. Rodgers is a 5-9, 175-pounder from Lumberton.

Lining up alongside the tailbacks this year are four pretty good fullbacks. Junior Arthur Humphrey (6-0, 204) has the slight edge at this time for the starting berth, but converted fullback Steve Hendrix (6-3, 235) is close behind.

"Arthur suffered a shoulder injury in the spring and what will determine what he does this fall is how he overcomes this injury," Canty says. "He has two years of experience and he is a hard worker. He has a lot of pride and he will come back strong."

Humphrey, the second-leading rusher last fall, compiled 414 yards in 1982 on 99 carries for a 4.2 yard average. The Ft. Walton Beach, Fla. native also grabbed five passes while scoring three touchdowns.

Hendrix, another redshirt last season, has been moved from offensive guard to fullback and made vast strides during the spring.

"I think the move will be a good one," Canty said. "He did a lot of work in the spring, learning and running through the drills."

Governor's Cup billed as championship

Runners from throughout the Southeast will compete in 28 age divisions and 11 special divisions Sept. 24 in the fourth annual running of the Governor's Cup Five Miler in Jackson.

The event, which has been designated by the Road Runners Club of America as the state championship for five miles, is expected to draw almost 1,500 runners. Last year's race attracted almost 1,200 participants.

Governor Winter, who initiated the roadrace four years ago to promote physical fitness and health, will run again this year.

Runners in the Open Division (under 40 years old) will be trying to better records set in 1981 by Ed Palmer in the men's group (23:56) and Linda McLennan in the women's group (27:56). The Masters' Division (40 years plus) records are held by Ken Winn (28:02) and Shirley Morris (35:17).

The run begins at 8 a.m. on Capitol Street near the Governor's Mansion before winding through downtown Jackson past the New Capitol, War Memorial Building, Old Capitol, City Hall, Hinds County Courthouse, and Old Central Fire Station, and finishing at Smith Park.

Post race activities in Smith Park include refreshments, and entertainment by the 41st Army Band of the Mississippi

National Guard. Babysitting service will be provided at the Holiday Inn Downtown from 7 a.m. until 10 a.m.

Awards will be presented to the first 10 men and women, as well as to the first five Masters' men and women. Awards will also be presented to the top three men and women in age divisions ranging from under nine years old, to 70 years old and older.

Special awards will go to the first three men and women finishers in the following categories: state employees, National Guard members and employees, Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol employees, Blue Cross and Blue Shield employees, and residents of Arkansas. The Ole Miss-Arkansas football game will be played later in the day at Memorial Stadium, and the Mississippi College-Southern State of Arkansas game will be played in Clinton.

Special presentations will also be made to the top three wheelchair finishers. An addition to this year's event is team competition for Open Men and Women, and Master Men. Each team must include at least three and not more than five runners in the same age group.

In response to a tremendous interest in walking, the Governor's Cup will include a five-mile walk. Walkers must register and receive an official competitor's number. All walkers finishing the distance will receive the official attractive three-color T-shirt, and be eligible for age group awards.

Because of the September date, special aid stations to assist with the replacement of body fluids will be located on the course and at the finish line. The average temperature in Jackson for Sept. is 74 degrees, with an average high of 86 and an average low of 62.

Entry fee for the race is $6 prior to Sept. 16, and $7 after that date. Entry forms are available by calling the Governor's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports at 354-6344, or the Governor's Service Line at 1-800-222-7622.

EAGLE PROS

Several members of Southern Mississippi's 1982 football team gave professional football a shot this past spring and summer. Three players made the United States Football League and two of them were starters.

Quarterback Reggie Collier was the starter for the Birmingham Stallions before he was knocked out for the season with a knee injury. Former USM defensive tackle Mookie Allen saw action as a defensive end with the Stallions.

The other Eagle player who played in the new league is cornerback Eddie Ray Walker, who drew a number of starting assignments with the Arizona Wranglers.

Former USM punter Bruce Thompson and tight end Raymond Powell signed as free agents with the Seattle Seahawks of the National Football League, but both were released during training camp.

George Tillman, a standout defensive end for the Eagles, failed in his attempt to make a team in both the USFL and NFL, and is currently serving as a student assistant coach with the Golden Eagles.

South Central Bell delivering phone books

The latest edition of the telephone directory contains telephone listings for Bay St. Louis, Biloxi, Gulfport, Long Beach, Ocean Springs, Pass Christian, Pearllington, Vancleave and Waveland.

According to Don Roberts, district manager, the delivery of about 150,000 directories began Aug. 19, and should be completed by Aug. 31. Customers who have not received a directory by this time should contact the Residence Telephone Order Center at the above number to get one at no charge.

Directories for all other Gulf Coast exchanges are also being delivered at this time.

The new directory, featuring a magnolia blossom on the cover, will again contain several pages of money saving coupons.

A convenient coupon index is included to assist in quick and easy shopping in the yellow pages.

The telephone company will again use the "one directory per household" formula for the distribution.

Roberts said that those customers wanting more than one book can request an additional copy from the delivery personnel, or can call the Residence Telephone Order Center at the above number to get one at no charge.

Directories for all other Gulf Coast exchanges are also being delivered at this time.

Power company reports success with bill delay

More than 1,675 Mississippi Power Company customers on fixed incomes have had the due date on their electric bills delayed since the utility began its 3-D Program in June.

Robert Pierce, vice president, Customer Services said, "The Delayed Due Date, or 3-D, program was designed to help customers on fixed incomes avoid late payment charges because their bill was due before they received their government benefit check."

"The program has more than met our expectations," Pierce said. "Customer response has been excellent and shows that this service is helping many of our customers on fixed incomes."

Pierce explained that the program delays the due date for residential customers whose main source of income is a Social Security check or other form of governmental assistance.

"For some customers, electric bills come due at inconvenient times of the month and made budget planning difficult," Pierce said. "We recognize this problem and are willing to delay our cash flow and extend the due date, to qualifying customers until after their government benefit or pension check arrives."

To qualify for the 3-D program, a customer's electric bill must normally be received after the fifth of the month and fall due before the fifth of the next month.

Additionally, the customer must have no unpaid balance from previous months. Applications are available at all Mississippi Power Company offices and can be mailed to customers if necessary.

A salt shaker on the kitchen table is an ordinary sight in many homes. Small wonder, salt is one of the most widely used seasonings in America.

Common table salt is a chemical compound known as sodium chloride made up of 40 percent sodium and 60 percent chlorine. Sodium is a mineral element that is as essential to the body as air and water.

Sodium is partly responsible for transmitting nerve impulses, contracting and expanding the muscle fibers and nourishing the cells. Sodium also works with other minerals like potassium to maintain the proper fluid balance in the body.

Although some sodium is vital to body functions, many people consume far more sodium than they need. One teaspoon of salt contains 2,000 milligrams of sodium. In most cases, from 1,100 to 3,300 milligrams of sodium per day provides a safe and adequate amount according to the Food and Nutrition Board of National Academy of Sciences.

But many people consume two to three times or even more sodium each day than is needed.

Excess sodium in the diet is believed to contribute to several diseases. High blood pressure or hypertension is one of the most common diseases which may be related to excessive consumption of sodium. High blood pressure affects about one in four Americans.

It puts an extra strain on the heart which can lead to problems including heart attack, stroke and kidney failure.

High blood pressure doesn't hurt, and it usually doesn't make a person feel sick, dizzy or nervous. As a result, many people with high blood pressure don't even know they have it.

That's why it is so important for people to get their blood pressure checked regularly and, if it is high, to follow the treatment their doctors prescribe.

Along with drugs, weight loss for the overweight, exercise, and sodium restriction are among the most important ways to treat high blood pressure.

If your doctor has advised you to decrease your sodium intake, don't feel doomed to a life of boring foods. Just a few changes in your eating habits can reduce your sodium intake drastically.

However, if you must severely restrict your sodium intake, you may need a special written diet from your doctor or dietician. The diet must be followed closely since sodium in foods add up quickly.

Sodium can be found in more places than the salt shaker, but about one-fourth of your sodium intake comes from the salt you add to food.

Sodium occurs naturally in most foods in varying but usually small amounts. Fresh meat, poultry, fish, dairy products and eggs contain greater amounts of sodium than fresh fruits and vegetables.

Most of the sodium in foods is added to products during processing to help preserve and flavor them.

Salt is added to vegetables in the canning and freezing process and is used in smoking, curing and processing of many meat products.

Pickles and sauerkraut are preserved in brine (salt water) and are high in sodium. Most cheeses, mixes, sauces, soups, catsup, mustard and salad dressings as well as many breakfast cereals also have salt added.

Sodium exists in places not so obvious too. For example, baking powder and baking soda both contain sodium and are used in many cakes, cookies and other baked goods.

Sodium is also found in drinking water. Amounts of sodium in water vary across the country. Water softeners raise the sodium content of drinking water.

People on very restricted sodium diets may need to avoid softened water and learn the sodium content of local water supplies. On extremely restricted sodium diets, your physician may advise that you drink and cook with distilled water.

Some over-the-counter drugs and medications contain added sodium. Alkalizers for indigestion, antacids, laxatives, bicarbonate of soda, aspirin and cough medicines all contain high amounts of sodium.

Even toothpaste and mouthwash contain small amounts of sodium, though this is an insignificant source if not swallowed.

For people who must or who want to reduce the amount of sodium in their diet, package labels may provide some helpful information.

Check the label for both ingredient and nutrition information. The ingredient statement on food labels will list the presence of salt and/or any other sodium compounds. Look for the words "salt", "sodium" or "soda". Ingredients always will be listed in order of their predominance (descending by weight from most to least).

Many food labels list sodium content as part of the nutritional label along with calories, protein, fats and carbohydrates.

Under current government regulations, the listing of sodium content is required only for products about which a sodium claim is made. For all other foods sodium listing is optional.

Used by permission; all rights reserved by DATE, St. Louis, Mo.

QUESTION - Polls show that 75% of all adult smokers started before age 21, and 90% started before age 25. Today approximately 54 million Americans smoke. How many of these will die prematurely because of their smoking?

- a) 54 million
- b) 37 million
- c) 25 million
- d) 18 million

Tab for sending children to college a nightmare

By BONITA BRIDGES
Consumer Management Specialist
Cooperative Extension Service

The tab for sending children to college is a nightmare for many families. College education is one of the largest expenses a family encounters.

The average tuition for an in-state student at one of Mississippi's public universities is about $995 for the 1983-84 school year.

Preparing for college expenses means setting goals and laying plans years before the money is needed.

Securing investments and savings, at as little risk as possible is the most important goal for most families. Along with avoiding risk, families should be concerned about reducing or eliminating taxes on earnings of the college nest egg.

Some of the options families might consider in building a nest egg for college education are:

—Clifford Trust. This device permits parents to lend money to their child or children interest free for 10 years. Income from the invested money is taxed to the child. The child would be taxed at a lower rate than the wage earner. Ask banks and brokerage firms about this trust.

—Uniform Gift to Minors Act. Basically, a parent would establish a custodial account giving the child money with the parent serving as custodian. The child must have a Social Security number. The parent is in charge of managing the investment of the funds. The funds may be a variety of instruments such as mutual fund or long-term certificates of deposit.

Withdrawal of any funds must be well documented to show that they have been used for the child. The uses for the child must be legitimate. When funds are withdrawn, income on interest is reported that year. The child would be in a lower tax bracket than parent.

The advantages of this arrangement are flexibility in investing the funds, their early withdrawal when needed by the child, deduction or elimination of tax on interest and the donation is free of federal and estate taxes for the parent. The disadvantage is that the money now belongs to the child.

Check with banks, other financial institutions and brokerage firms on details.

—Zero Coupon Bonds. Zero Coupon Bonds can be taxable or tax-free. They offer repayment at a stated maturity value. Zero Coupon Bonds differ from other bonds in that no interim interest payments are made to the bondholder.

The bonds must be held to maturity to realize the stated maturity value. The advantage of Zero Coupon Bonds is that they pay a fixed rate of return.

The bond belongs to the child who earns no other income and the interest is not taxed. The interest has to be deducted each year although it is not paid. This would involve the parent filling out an income tax return for the child each year. Check with brokerage firms for more information on Zero Coupon Bonds.

A Zero Coupon Bond bought today for $377.50 would earn 10.1 percent interest and be worth $1,000 in 1993.

Building a nest egg for college means families should begin a saving-investment program early, preferably before the child is 10 years of age.

Invest regularly and use discipline to continue investments. Don't sacrifice the college funds for anything except a dire emergency that could not be handled with normal cash flow.

Book Review

Annie Harper's Journal - A Southern Mother's Legacy
A review of the book by Joe Pilet, Coordinator, Friends of the Library

One fine day in 1981 the Mississippi Department of Archives and History in Jackson had an enthusiastic visitor.

Jeannie Marie Deen, a student from the University of Southern Mississippi in Hattiesburg, begun in earnest to untangle the dust from musty volumes in search for little-known factual information about Mississippi.

Eureka! She found it! There in an ordinary looking little grey ledger was a gleaming sunburst, sending out rays of highly personal and diversified impressions centering around Natchez - an account leading up to the War Between the States, the war itself, and the Reconstruction period.

It was written by Annie Harper, a New York-educated, Natchez-born lady of considerable means. The work was intended for her young daughter, Lurline.

The account, started in 1876, addressed her daughter saying: "As you grow older you will hear constant references to the war of secession. I desire that you shall know more of that struggle, and invest it with greater interest than children usually do their text books of United States History."

Intrigued, Deen spent long hours deciphering faded, hand-written manuscript, taking notes, editing, interviewing.

With scholarly dedication of purpose her work entitled Annie Harper's Journal, edited with introduction and notes by Jeannie Marie Deen, in 1983, and with all rights reserved was released from the press of Flower Mound Writing Company (Denton).

Natchez, during the time of Annie Harper, was a well established culture center made prosperous largely through cotton plantations tended by an abundance of slave labor.

Natchez citizens were passionately involved in unresolved issues resulting in four long years of bitter struggling.

Annie Harper accomplished her goal. And then some! Home life on the plantations was recorded with clarity and feeling. She wrote of how the soldiers were fed and clothed, of the loyalty of the women and their self-sacrifices, ingenuity, generosity, strength and dogged determination.

Her little grey ledger has proven the most important way to preserve ideas, information and insight is through the printed word.

Annie Harper's predictions of what the future holds is unparalleled for accuracy.

Like the phoenix, our beloved Southland has risen from war ashes of her dead self to - as Annie predicted - "blossom as never before."

Readers of the journal will readily appreciate this uncommon book which is now available at the newly opened shop Just For You and also at Pittman's Hallmark, both in Bay St. Louis, modestly priced at $7.50.

How to spell

By John Irving

International Paper asked John Irving, author of "The World According to Garp," "The Hotel New Hampshire," and "Setting Free the Bears," among other novels, and once a hopelessly bad speller himself, to teach you how to improve your spelling.

Let's begin with the bad news. If you're a bad speller, you probably think you always will be. There are exceptions to every spelling rule, and the rules themselves are easy to forget. George Bernard Shaw demonstrated how ridiculous some spelling rules are. By following the rules, he said, we could spell fish this way: ghotti. The "f" as it sounds in enough, the "i" as it sounds in women, and the "sh" as it sounds in fiction.

With such rules to follow, no one should feel stupid for being a bad speller. But there are ways to improve. Start by acknowledging the mess that English spelling is in - but have sympathy: English spelling changed with foreign influences. Chaucer wrote "gesse," but "guess" imported earlier by the Norman invaders, finally replaced it. Most early printers in England came from Holland; they brought "ghost" and "gherkin" with them.

If you'd like to intimidate yourself - and remain a bad speller forever - just try to remember the 13 different ways the sound "sh" can be written:

shoe	suspicion
sugar	nauseous
ocean	conscious
issue	chaperone
nation	mansion
schist	fuchsia
shaw

Now the good news

The good news is that 90 percent of all writing consists of 1,000 basic words. There is, also, a method to most English spelling and a great number of how-to-spell books. Remarkably, all these books propose learning the same rules! Not surprisingly, most of these books are humorless.

Just keep this in mind: If you're familiar with the words you use, you'll probably spell them correctly - and you shouldn't be writing words you're unfamiliar with anyway. USE a word - out loud, and more than once - before you try writing it, and make sure (with a new word) that you know what it means before you use it. This means you'll have to look it up in a dictionary, where you'll not only learn what it means, but you'll see how it's spelled. Choose a dictionary you enjoy browsing in, and guard it as you would a diary. You wouldn't lend a diary, would you?

A tip on looking it up

Beside every word I look up in my dictionary, I make a mark.

"Love your dictionary."

Beside every word I look up more than once, I write a note to myself - about WHY I looked it up. I have looked up "strictly" 14 times since 1964. I prefer to spell it with a k - as in "strictly." I have looked up "ubiquitous" a dozen times. I can't remember what it means.

Another good way to use your dictionary: When you have to look up a word, for any reason, learn - and learn to spell - a new word at the same time. It can be any useful word on the same page as the word you looked up. Put the date beside this new word and see how quickly, or in what way, you forget it. Eventually, you'll learn it.

Almost as important as knowing what a word means (in order to spell it) is knowing how it's pronounced. It's government, not government. It's February, not February. And if you know that anti- means against, you should know how to spell antidote and antibiotic and antifreeze. If you know that ante- means before, you shouldn't have trouble spelling antechamber or antecedent.

Some rules, exceptions, and two tricks

I don't have room to touch on all the rules here. It would take a book to do that. But I can share a few that help me most:

Some spelling problems that seem hard are really easy. What about -ary or -ory? Just remember that there are only six common words in English that end in -ary. Memorize them, and feel fairly secure that all the rest end in -ary.

cemetery	monastery
millinery	confectionery
distillery	stationery
	(as in paper)

Here's another easy rule. Only four words end in -ly: Most people misspell them - with -ly, which is usually correct. Just memorize these, too, and use -ly for all the rest.

stupefy	putrefy
liquefy	rarefy

As a former bad speller, I have learned a few valuable tricks. Any good how-to-spell book will teach you more than these two, but these two are my favorites. Of the 800,000 words in the English language, the most frequently misspelled is alright; just remember that alright is all wrong. You wouldn't write alright, would you? That's how you know you should write all right.

The other trick is for the truly worst spellers. I mean those of you who spell so badly that you can't get close enough to the right way to spell a word in order to even FIND it in the dictionary. The word you're looking for is there, of course, but you won't find it the way you're trying to spell it. What to do is look up a synonym - another word that means the same thing. Chances are good that you'll find the word you're looking for under the definition of the synonym.

Demon words and bugbears

Everyone has a few demon words - they never look right, even when they're spelled correctly. Three of my demons are medieval, ecstacy, and rhythm. I have learned to hate these words, but I have not learned to spell them; I have to look them up every time.

And everyone has a spelling rule that's a bugbear - it's either too difficult to learn or it's impossible to remember. My personal bugbear among the rules is the one governing whether you add -able or -ible. I can teach it to you, but I can't remember it myself.

You add -able to a full word, adapt, adaptable; work, workable. You add -ible to words that end in g - just remember to drop the final g: love, lovable. But if the word ends in two g's like agree, you keep them both agreeable.

You add -ible if the base is not a full word that can stand on its own: credible, tangible, horrible, terrible. You add -ible if the root word ends in -ns, responsible. You add -ible if the root word ends in -miss, permissible. You add -ible if the root word ends in a soft g.

This is one of the longest English words in common use. But don't let the length of a word frighten you. There's a trick for how to spell this one, and you can learn it (but remember to drop the final g): torce, forcible.

Got that? I don't have it, and I was introduced to that rule in prep school; with that rule, I still learn one word at a time.

Poor President Jackson

You must remember that it is impossible for spelling to drive you crazy. Spelling had this effect on Andrew Jackson, who once blew his stack while trying to write a Presidential paper. "It's a damn poor mind that can think of only one way to spell a word!" the President cried.

When you have trouble, think of poor Andrew Jackson and know that you're not alone.

What's really important

And remember what's really important about good writing is not good spelling. If you spell badly but write well, you should hold your head up. As the poet T.S. Eliot recommended, "Write for as large and miscellaneous an audience as possible" - and don't be overly concerned if you can't spell "miscellaneous."

Also remember that you can spell correctly and write well and still be misunderstood. Hold your head up about that, too.

As good old G.C. Lichtenberg said, "A book is a mirror: if an ass peers into it, you can't expect an apostle to look out" - whether you spell "apostle" correctly or not.

John Irving

Today, the printed word is more vital than ever. Now there is more need than ever for all of us to read better, write better, and communicate better.

Computer Center fall session opens Sept. 5

Approximately 50 young people and adults participated in daytime and evening sessions at M&M Computer Learning Center in Bay St. Louis, completing the first summer of operation for the center.

Dr. Frances McDonald, co-director of the center, said she feels it has been a definite success. She finds it exciting to see what original ideas and projects the students come up with, once basic knowledge and opportunity to apply it to computers is made available, she said.

Motives for enrolling have been varied, according to McDonald. Some wanted to purchase a computer and were confused by the wide assortment of equipment available.

Some already owned a computer and wanted to get more use from it.

Still others wanted to increase their skills to add to resumes, or just wanted to find out what computers are all about. Most surprised themselves with their own accomplishments by the end of their courses, added McDonald.

The sessions consist of part instruction and part hands-on computer experience, using a variety of personal and business microcomputers. Emphasis is on introductory programming in the basic language common to most computers.

The center was the joint project of McDonald and Ali Movahed of New Orleans, both faculty members of Delgado Community College in New Orleans in the mathematics and computer science departments. Teaching will resume at M&M this fall with evening and afternoon sessions at the center beginning Sept. 5.

THANK YOU

I want to take this opportunity to thank my friends who voted for me in my campaign for Sheriff of Hancock County.

To those who saw fit to cast their vote for my opponent, I have not before, nor do I hold malice or hard feelings toward you, but respect your right to cast your vote as you saw fit.

I have enjoyed working with and serving the people of Hancock County by serving as City Commissioner of the City of Bay St. Louis, Miss., for 7 years, Sheriff and Tax Collector for 8 years when job was combined and 8 more years as Sheriff when the job was separated making a total of 23 years as an elected official.

My father the late Sylvan J. Ladner, Sr., served the City of Bay St. Louis, Miss., as City Secretary and City Commissioner for 17 years. This makes a total of 40 years served by my father and I in an elected position.

I would also like to take this opportunity to advise the people of Hancock County, even though I am not in politics, if I am ever able to help them with some of their problems I want them to contact me and I will try to assist them in any way that I can.

THANKS TO ALL AND GOD BLESS YOU.

Bay students test hearing

The Bay St. Louis School System tests the hearing of all first grade students and fourth grade students each year, according to Betty Benvenuti, speech pathologist.

The first grade is especially important because if a child can't hear he can't learn.

The type of test given is an audiometric test which tests frequencies not only in the speech range but, also the low frequencies which are very important for safety, for example, a car approaching or footsteps.

Students who fail the audiometric test are referred to an ear-nose-throat specialist for further testing.

Any student or child in the community suspected of having a hearing loss may contact the principal of his school and the speech pathologist will be glad to test the child's hearing as a service to the community.

Universities prepare students for life, vacuum exists in death preparation

By WILL NORTON
Journalism

The University of Mississippi The following article is the result of a project funded by the Mississippi Committee for the Humanities to the Mississippi Press Association. The opinions are those of the author and not those of either organization.

A young woman looked up from the book she was reading when another student sat down across from her in the Ole Miss library. A few minutes later she noticed a plastic container which he had placed on the table.

"Hey, I take medicine just like that," she blurted out with the animation of someone who had just made an important discovery.

"Oh, I suppose you've got cancer," the boy responded sharply.

The young woman ignored the bitterness in his comment, and they talked for several minutes. When the young woman began to study again, she realized that this was only the second person to whom she had mentioned her illness.

If she had thought about it, she might not have impulsively commented on the pills, but she was surprised to find someone else who had cancer, someone else who knew what it was like to have a terminal illness while classmates were planning on long careers.

That brief initial conversation turned into a friendship. They often talked of their feelings in a way that they could not with others.

I had learned of the young woman's illness several weeks earlier when one of our faculty members mentioned her attendance problem.

"She doesn't seem to be the kind of student who is irresponsible," the instructor said, "but she hasn't come to class for several weeks."

"Why don't you call her again and talk to her," I suggested. Later the instructor told me that the young woman had terminal cancer.

The death of a young person has been described in literature, but this year it has touched the lives of several of my students or my colleagues' students.

These tragic incidents have raised some questions for me about the place of a university in our society.

As university faculty we are accustomed to students graduating and achieving successes.

Several years ago I advised a 27 year old graduate student who was preparing a dissertation proposal. As we ate lunch he described new career opportunities that had just developed.

We were to meet a week later for me to critique his work. As he got into his car to return to his home in Jackson, I told him, "You'll be finished by the end of the semester."

I was wrong. A week later I attended his funeral at the First Presbyterian Church in Jackson and wiped tears from my eyes as the minister described the outstanding attributes of this young man from whom I had such admiration.

I couldn't believe that this model of American manhood was dead. Physically fit, intellectually curious, and well mannered, he was more successful than many of his professors. As I listened to the preacher's words I wondered if I were just filling students up with information.

"Shouldn't I be preparing them for situations like this?" I asked my companion after the service.

Universities must prepare students to be good stewards, not necessarily to be successful. Last fall a student asked is she could take an incomplete in my class because she had a brain tumor and just did not have the strength to do her reading and come to class.

I became nauseated as she talked in a very upbeat manner about her condition. "It's been good for me," she said. "They give me seven years, but I expect to die as an old lady."

"Have you been able to make up any of your work?" I asked. "No. I've been visiting with my friends. They've been very worried about me. They thought I was worse off than I am. So I've had to show them I'm doing okay."

Obviously, meeting rigorous writing assignments is not important for the young woman.

Time is essential for her, and I feel quite useless in guiding her to use her time on course assignments. In fact, I wonder what value a university has for someone in her condition.

Universities exist to make life better, to prepare each of us for living, to help people cope with the good and the bad, but I feel the constraints of public education in a secular society.

PREPARING A CHILD FOR A HOSPITAL STAY

Preparing For Hospital Stay

How can you prepare a child for a stay in the hospital?

First of all, try to handle your own natural anxiety, suggests Growing Child, the monthly child development newsletter. If you are very nervous or upset yourself, you may very well spread your fear to your child.

Tell the child about the hospitalization as soon as you know about it. Don't try to sugar-coat it by saying it won't hurt at all or that the hospital is a lot of fun. Be matter-of-fact about it. Present a realistic and honest description of what will happen in terms the child can understand. Encourage him to ask questions, to express his fears and feelings.

Do not try to eliminate all fear and anxiety in trying to eliminate fear of the unknown. Recent studies have shown that it is really better for a child to feel a reasonable fear of a different experience, than to be encouraged to suppress all anxiety.

Some advance worry prepares a person—whether a child or adult—for what lies ahead. It helps one build inner strength. Accurate information about what to expect, communicated to the child at his own level of understanding, and without parental anxiety, is the best preparation.

Explore, also, the policies of the hospital with regard to child patients. Can parents stay overnight? Can siblings visit? Many hospitals provide tours for prospective child patients and their families. These tours usually include the pediatric ward playroom, a demonstration of what kind of bed the child will have, the call button and what it is for, and even the hospital gowns the children wear.

The Growing Child newsletter follows a child's development month-by-month. For information about the social and physical development of children from birth to six years old, write Growing Child, P.O. Box 620N, Lafayette, Ind. 47902.

Include child's birthdate for a free sample copy of the newsletter.

GCRL's Marine Education Center to be 'most advanced'

"When completed, the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory's (GCRL) Marine Education Center will be one of the most advanced facilities of its kind in the Southeast," states Leo S. Demski, PhD, associate professor of biology from the University of Kentucky.

Demski, a member of the visiting teaching faculty at GCRL, spends alternate summers at the Marine Education Center teaching a course on the behavior and neurobiology of marine animals and conducting research.

"This facility will allow educators, researchers, marine science students, and members of the seafood industry to study and investigate a variety of species of fresh and salt water marine life indigenous to the Gulf Coast," explained Demski. "Previously, we had to spend half our time collecting specimens. Now, we can devote more time to education and research."

"I know of no other animal behavior class that has this type of facility," concluded Demski. "My students will be able to study certain aspects of behavior employing a wide variety of species. Thus, they will have a more indepth understanding of the marine environment of the Mississippi coastal area."

Dr. Demski feels that the large aquaria at the Marine Education Center are vital to utilize them to their fullest capacity. Some of the research projects he proposes for his classes to do with the aquaria include: (1) Feeding adaptations and strategies in fishes; (2) Time of day changes in fish behavior; (3) Dynamics of schooling in fishes; (4) Sounds produced by fishes; and (5) Analysis of behavioral responses of fishes to playback of sounds.

The new J. L. Scott Marine Education Center was established to meet the increasing need to provide information on coastal marine resources. The 3.5 million dollar facility will serve as a center for information on the marine environment and its conservation, and will provide critically needed space for education and research.

The ground floor of the center is designated as a display/teaching area that will include a large circular aquarium (reef tank—about 30 feet in diameter, holding about 42,000 gallons of water) with a series of small aquariums set off in alcoves. These will exhibit the gamut of Mississippi marine life from invertebrates to fish. Included on the first floor are demonstration laboratories, classroom space, a library with an audio/visual center, and an auditorium. The second floor includes classrooms and research laboratories.

"I am impressed with the Marine Education Center. It is unique in its capabilities for educational and research purposes," stated Demski. "Through this type of facility, the whole community benefits."

Schools to verify free lunch

Mississippi school districts will soon be required to verify the household income of applicants for free and reduced-price meals.

Beginning with the 1983-84 school year, each district must check a sample of the applications it receives for the National School Lunch and School Breakfast Programs, to ensure the eligibility of students.

Selection of households whose children are receiving free or reduced-price meals will be on a non-discriminatory basis. Households will be required to provide written evidence of income, such as paycheck stubs. Failure to cooperate will make a household's children ineligible for the program.

John Walker of the State Department of Education's Child Nutrition office says over 368,000 children in Mississippi participate in the National School Lunch Program each day. "About 65 percent of them receive free lunches, while seven percent receive reduced-price meals."

"In the School Breakfast Program, we serve almost 115,000 daily," Walker says. "Of these, 90 percent are free meals and four percent are reduced-price meals."

Under the new requirements, which become effective Oct. 1, school districts must verify 3 percent or 3,000 applications, whichever is less. Districts may exceed these numbers, but are not required to do so.

Walker says eligibility for both programs is based on congressionally-mandated income guidelines. For more information, contact Walker at P. O. Box 771, Jackson, MS 39205 or call 352-8480.

Children from families whose income is at or below the levels shown are eligible for free or reduced price meals.

Application forms are being sent to all homes in a letter to parents. Additional copies are available at the office in each school.

The information provided on the application will be used for the purpose of determining eligibility, and may be verified at any time during the school year by school or program officials.

For the school officials to determine eligibility, the household must provide the following information listed on the application: names of all household members; social security numbers of all adult household members or a statement that the household member does not possess one; total household income; and the signature of an adult household member certifying that the information provided is correct.

Households are required to report increases in household income of over $50 per month of $600 per year and decreases in household size.

In certain cases foster children are also eligible for these benefits. If a family has foster children living with them and wishes to apply for such meals, the family should contact the school.

Under the provisions of the policy, principals will review applications and determine eligibility.

If a parent is dissatisfied with the decision of the determining official, he or she may wish to discuss it with the official on an informal basis.

If he wishes to make a formal appeal, he may make a request either orally or in writing to designated hearing officers at each school or district office for a hearing to appeal the decision.

LOCAL POLICIES

Area schools have announced the policy they will follow in determining eligibility for free and reduced price meals for children served under the National School Lunch Program.

School officials at St. Stanislaus High School, Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District, St. Clare School in Waveland, Bay Catholic Elementary School in Bay St. Louis and Annunciation School in Kiln have adopted the following family size and income standards for determining eligibility:

Scale for Free Meals

Family Size of 1, with yearly income of $6,318, monthly of $527, weekly of $122;
—2, $8,502, $709, 164;
—3, $10,686, $891, 206;
—4, $12,870, $1,073, 248;
—5, $15,054, $1,255, 290;
—6, $17,238, $1,437, 332;
—7, $19,422, $1,619, 374;
—8, $21,606, $1,801, 416.
Each additional family member, add +$2,184, +$182, +$42.

Scale for Reduced Price Meals

Family Size of 1, with yearly income of $8,991, monthly of $750, weekly of $173;
—2, $12,099, $1,009, 233;
—3, $15,207, $1,268, 293;
—4, $18,315, $1,527, 353;

—8, $30,747, $2,563, 592.
Each additional family member, add +$3,108, +$259, +$60.

The policy contains an outline of the hearing procedure.

Those officials and the appropriate addresses include Sister Lorraine Blanchette, R.J.M. principal; and Father Austin Walsh, ST, hearing officer, Annunciation School, POB 97, Kiln, Ms., 255-1800; Brother Paul Mulligan, SC, principal, and Brother Mark Thornton, SC, hearing officer, St. Stanislaus, POB 351, Bay St. Louis, Ms., 467-9057; Sister Mary Jane Bircher, principal, and Father William Voller, hearing officer, St. Clare School, 125 Vacation Lane, Waveland, Ms., 467-9275.

Also, Superintendent J. D. McCullough, hearing officer, Bay Municipal Schools, 750 Blue Meadow Road, Bay St. Louis, Ms., 39520, 467-6821; Mrs. Julie W. Wade, principal, and Father Francis Farrell, hearing officer, Bay Catholic Elementary School, 228 South Beach Boulevard, Bay St. Louis, Ms., 39520, 467-5158; and Superintendent Terrell

Randolph, hearing officer, Hancock County Schools, POB 269, Bay St. Louis, MS., 39520, 467-4468.

If, during the year, a family member becomes unemployed or if the household size changes, the family should contact the school. Such changes may make the children of the household eligible for additional benefits, if the household income falls at or below the levels shown.

The information provided by the household is confidential and will be used only for purposes of determining eligibility and verifying data.

All children are treated the same regardless of ability to pay. In the operation of child feeding programs, no child will be discriminated against because of race, color, national origin, age, or handicap.

Anyone believing they have been discriminated against should write immediately to the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Each school and the district offices have a copy of the complete policy, which may be reviewed by an interested party.

DRUG QUIZ

by Curt Scarborough, Ph.D.
Used by permission; all rights reserved by DATE, St. Louis, Mo.

QUESTION—Which segment of the U. S. population contains the largest percentage of persons who have tried cocaine?

- a) College students
- b) Professionals
- c) Blue-collar workers
- d) Military personnel

ANSWER—Government studies show that those in their late 20's and 30's constitute the fastest growing proportion of users and, as of 1982, a majority of people who had tried cocaine were over 26. A national survey by the polling firm of Yankelovich, Skelly and White found that 11% of U.S. adults admit having sampled cocaine, and one in four says that "someone close to me has tried it." The survey found that blue-collar workers are more likely than professionals (14% vs. 9%) to have tried cocaine.

Correct answer — c.

IT WAS SIMPLE TO KEEP COOL. ELECTRIC FANS. LEMONADE. AND MOST AIR CONDITIONING WAS AT THE MOVIES.

Fighting stopped in Korea. Old Casey's Yankees beat Brooklyn's Dodgers for a record fifth straight World Series. 3-D movies were the new craze. Crewcuts, pony tails, and the bunny hop were the rage. And attic fans were the last word in home cooling comfort.

It's hard to realize it now, thirty years later. But, home air conditioning used to be very rare—only for the well-to-do.

Today, it's so commonplace, most of us think it's a necessity. And our grandparents would be amazed to see us getting through a summer's day in southeast Mississippi without even working up a sweat.

That's why, today, air conditioning counts for about half of your summer electricity bill. And Mississippi Power customers use about 20% more electricity than the national average, specifically because of air conditioning.

You're paying more because you're purchasing more kilowatt-hours. And because we're paying more to make and deliver electricity to you.

Can we offer you any comfort? This chart illustrates what has happened to other consumer costs during the last thirty years.

Price Increases Since 1953
Peanut Butter	Up 383%
White Bread	Up 257%
Gasoline	Up 385%
Movie Ticket	Up 413%
Home Purchase	Up 226%

Also, while our average cost of fuel per kilowatt-hour has more than quadrupled since 1973, our price per kilowatt-hour has barely doubled since 1953. Most other goods and services can't claim that.

Another way to stay cool about power costs is to take out your last Mississippi Power bill and break it down for yourself.

Divide by the number of days each month and the number of people in your household. The result is your average electricity cost per person, per day, and might look something like this:

EXAMPLE
$140.00 Mississippi Power Bill	÷ 30 Number of Days per Month	÷ 4 Number in Household	= $1.17 A Day per Person for Electricity.

Electricity from Mississippi Power. Good value in '53. A better value in '83. Even with the air conditioner keeping you very, very cool.

One of a series. If you have a question about your electric service or Mississippi Power, call or write. The address is on your bill stub.

Alcohol, like a drug, has a certain effect on the body. When one drinks an alcoholic beverage, 20 percent of the alcohol is absorbed directly into the blood stream and eight percent is processed through the gastrointestinal tract and into the blood stream. (1) Next, the blood carries the alcohol to every part of the body.

Alcohol has its greatest effect on the brain and the effect is determined by the amount of alcohol consumed. A low amount will first effect the upper level where learned behavior patterns such as self-control is stored. (2)

In addition, if the alcohol intake is increased, it will effect the judgement and cause the person to be loud and abusive. If the alcohol intake is continued, the emotions become erratic and may cause a person to cry and laugh in just moments. (3)

Therefore, the alcohol concentration effects the entire control of the brain.

The eight percent alcohol that follows the gastrointestinal tract first damages the esophagus by direct chemical irritation to its interior lining.

Also, the alcohol interferes with the normal functions causing an upward movement of stomach acid into the esophagus where it can erode the tissue. The major complication in these processes is hemorrhaging and difficulty in swallowing. (4)

As the alcohol flows through the gastrointestinal tract, it damages the stomach. The alcohol often causes inflammation and eroding of the stomach lining.

Furthermore, increasing the alcohol aggravates the eroded area and causes an ulcer to appear. (5)

Next, the disturbance in the small intestines. In both alcoholics and social drinkers, administration of alcohol leads to changes in intestinal movement.

The result of the changes are increased rate of propulsion through small intestines, decreases in absorption of sugar, and cell damages. (6)

The pancreas, important in the small intestines, produces the enzymes that digest foods and excessive use of alcohol may result in pancreatitis. Pancreatitis is the inflammation of the pancreas and disturbances of its functioning.

Pancreatitis, sometimes thought as transient gastritis, can show symptoms of rapid pulse rate, abdominal pain, and a drop in blood pressure. (7)

The liver transfers food and alcohol into products ready for assimilation and elimination. Drinking alcohol causes three main reactions in the liver.

First, fatty liver in which fat displaces the material of individual liver cells, is the main change. The liver becomes enlarged, shiny, and greasy.

The fatty liver disappears when there is no more alcohol.

Next, hepatitis, inflammation of the liver, can be very severe and painful. It can result with enlargement of the liver, jaundice, weakness, fever, loss of appetite, and death.

Alcoholic hepatitis may subside with good care and discontinuing drinking.

Third, cirrhosis of the liver, the laying down of scar tissue, is the result of inflammation. The scar tissues replaces healthy cells, causing decreased liver functions.

The symptoms include jaundice, fluid retention, and body wasting. The liver structure becomes deformed, which damps up the blood at the entrance and decreases the function more.

The increased pressure may lead to hemorrhage, anemia, and poor blood clotting. Death may follow any one of these. (8)

The heart is highly effected by alcohol. Alcohol was long thought to be medication for heart disease. It was claimed that alcohol dilated the blood vessels of the heart and could be used where heart vessels were constricted. Many patients benefited.

However, evidence was found that the benefit was that the alcohol worked as a depressant on the brain to stop apprehension and worrying instead of dilating the blood vessels. (9)

Later, alcohol was found to slow the heart and cause cardiac arrest. The alcohol breakdown has a bad effect on the heart muscle. The condition includes shortness of breath, congestive heart, chest pain, and spitting blood. The disease does not occur suddenly, but often exist in alcoholics. (10)

Alcohol has a certain effect on the various systems of the body. The concentration, either large or small amounts, determines the effect on the body. Used in excess, can cause damage to the various systems, organs, and tissues. Therefore, an individual who uses alcohol will suffer damage, both psychologically and physiologically.
